EAST OTISFIELD

Mrs. Sybil Lamb entertained—Visitors at Greenleaf Cottage.

Mr. Fielders of Laconia, N. H., spent the week end with his family, who are visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rugg.

Mr. and Mrs. John Larabee of Deering visited Mrs. Sybil Lamb at Greenleaf Cottage, recently. Mr. Larabee being a cousin of Mrs. Lamb's husband, the late Nathaniel Lamb visited to the old home and with Mrs. Lamb spent the night there and enjoyed it much.

Mrs. Sybil Lamb visited friends in Bolton's Mills one day last week. She attended the Ladies Circle dinner, being held for the benefit of the minister, among old friends present were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hancock and daughter, Hattie, of Melrose, Mass. former residents of this town. A very pleasant time was enjoyed with them all, by Mrs. Lamb. On her return home, she was visited by Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Martin to a picnic supper at an open fireplace in Ned Loring's home. Mrs. Lamb returned home late in the evening, after a very pleasant day.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cummings of Norway called on Mrs. Sybil Lamb at Greenleaf Cottage by Saturday. Mrs. Greenleaf's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Greenleaf of Lewiston, visited Monday and Alton Morrell of Auburn spent Sunday with them. In the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Alton Grant and three children of South Paris and Mr. Moore of Norway, called on them. Several others of the Greenleaf family were present also.

Hartley E. Greenleaf of Auburn spent last Sunday with his parents and with his children and parents, took picnic lunch at the cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cummings of Norway called on Mrs. Sybil Lamb at Greenleaf Cottage, recently.

Miss Harriet E. Greenleaf of Auburn is with her grandparents on Broadway farm.

KEZAR FALLS

Tibbitts-Estes Wedding

The Daisy Class of the M. E. Church went to Bridgeton Fair an exhibit of fancy work and home cooking. About fifty prizes were awarded for the exhibit.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rounds, of Passaic, New Jersey, are guests of relatives in town.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Garner and two of their children, Ruth and John, returned from Philadelphia the first of the week. Rev. G. G. G. of Cornwall officiated at a service last Sunday morning in the M. E. Church. In addition to the usual hymns, service, William McCreary of Berwick and Mr. W. T. Norton sang most beautifully the duet, "I'll Be So Happy in Him."

Elmer Estes and Edward E. Tibbitts were married August 8th at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Estes, by Rev. Lewis W. Wentworth, grand father of the bridegroom. Tuesday evening they attended a reception given in their honor in the vestry of the M. E. Church, which was very prettily decorated for the occasion. Miss Mary Sellick and Theodore Fox, who served as bridesmaid and groom's man at the wedding, were in the receiving line. Many pretty gifts were received. They will reside in Hartford, Conn., where Mr. Tibbitts' uncle runs a rubber plant. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Tibbitts leave town with the best wishes of many friends for their future welfare.

HORSE FUEL

The quantity of feed for the work horse depends on the amount of work done and on the speed at which it is performed. A horse requires considerable more feed when working at the trot than at the walk. A good rule, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture, is to allow 1-1 1/2 pounds of grain and 1-1 1/2 pounds of hay per 100 pounds live weight for horses at moderate work. At this rate 1,200 pounds of horses would require 15 pounds of grain and about 14 1/2 pounds of hay per day. The horse at hard work requires 1-1 1/2 to 1-3 pounds of grain per 100 pounds live weight; the hay fed should not be more than 1-1 1/2 pounds per 100 pounds live weight. The exact quantity will depend largely on the individuality of each horse.

PASTRY

Pastry is certainly a New England food. Who considers the Thanksgiving or Christmas dinner complete without pie? While the homemaker, who is providing meals suitable for children as well as adults, is trying to introduce more simple puddings and fruit, the homes consisting of adults still cling to their pies. For this reason one should know how to make good pastry, i. e. light, flaky, tender.

There are two kinds of pastry: plain pastry and puff pastry. Puff pastry is never used for undercrusts for it rises or puffs up too much. It is sometimes used for rim or upper crusts of rich pies. It is used for tarts, pastry shells for filled creamed meat mixtures and for various shapes which are to be frosted or decorated for parties.

The ingredients for both are the same flour, salt, baking powder, shortening and cold water. In plain pastry any shortening may be used while part, if not all, butter is used in puff pastry. The kind of shortening determines the amount of shortening and flour. Plain paste, 1-4 cup shortening to 1 cup flour; puff paste 2 cups shortening to 2 cups flour. The directions for mixing and precautions in handling will be given in all cases.

What Makes Good Pastry?

To make pastry, pastry flour and the best shortening are essential. The lightness depends upon the amount of air enclosed and the expansion of the air in baking. The flakiness depends upon the kind and amount of shortening used. Good shortening is not too hard or too soft, but does not have the flavor given by the butter. Any vegetable fats or oils may be used. In using oil, time is saved by mixing with oil and water together. Use 1-4 to 1-3 less oil than lard or other compounds. The oil blends with the flour more evenly, making a crust which the particles are distributed under and appear to act as a film. This film keeps the moist flour apart, thus making it flaky. The lightness depends upon the amount of air enclosed. The baking powder is not necessary but may be added. By forming gas, it causes the dough to expand and so helps to make it light. One-fourth teaspoon to one cup of flour is plenty.

Manner of Mixing

The dry ingredients, flour, salt and baking powder are sifted together. The fat is then added. If this is cut in with two knives it will tend to be more flaky. For the flour and fat are not so evenly in town.

The amount of water to be added varies with the dryness of the flour and the amount of fat. The water should, however, be added so that the dough will be heated through a greater range of temperature and thus expand more. Just enough water is added to make the dough stick together.

Flour is sprinkled on the board and the paste patfed into a round, flat shape. Just enough flour is used to keep paste from sticking. The dough is then "rolled lightly" from the center. The rolling pressure is exerted to make the mass compact which tends to toughen it. The same thickness is to be kept at the edges, as in the center.

Bake in Hot Oven

Pastry should be baked in a hot oven. When it begins to brown the temperature can be reduced. In juicy pies, soggyness may be prevented by dusting the lower crust with dry flour, egg white, or partly baking the crust. Flour may be mixed with the sugar in case of berry pies to prevent "running over" in the oven. Use 1 T. flour to 1-2 O. sugar.

Other Uses of Plain Paste

Deep tarts are a variation. Roll the same as for pie crust and cut out with a cookie cutter. Press each bottom of inverted muffin tins. Prick the bottoms with a fork. Place in oven until crisp and brown. Remove from tins and fill with pie fillings, marmalades, preserves or creamed meat or fish.

Cheese Straws

The scraps of the pie crust may be used as cheese straws. Roll to 1-4 inch thickness. Cover with layer of finely cut cheese. Press it in lightly, sprinkle with salt and paprika. Roll again to 1-4 inch thickness cut in strips 8 x 1-4. Bake in hot oven till well browned.

Fat Cakes

A number of attractive tea cakes may be made using plain paste as foundation. Roll to 1-4 inch thickness. Cut in desired shapes. Spread with any desirable mixture as: sugar and cinnamon, jam and ingue. Bake in quick oven. Generally speaking, it is better to cook shaped pieces first and then spread with mixture. Some will need to be baked to the oven for a few minutes to brown.

THE SUNKEN GARDEN

Many times I had read about sunken gardens, but up to this time had never seen one. Leaving the Cliff House in Ogunquit, Maine, one morning, July 1, I was bent on seeing a bit of the coast, but by myself. The sky was overcast, a few drops of rain fell from time to time, but in all the excitement of the day, I was not aware of the weather. It was an ideal day to explore, cool and the surf was lovely.

I went across the woods, over the board walks in meadow, flowers on every hand, wild roses, morning glories, hardhack, lilies, and even golden rod, showing a bit of yellow already, reminding us that the autumn would soon be here.

Coming to the road near the golf course I kept to the highway, with my eyes open for any new sight. Soon I noticed a dark, shaggy, low in the pines, windows shattered, everything showing no one had visited the place this year. I went in through the pine, it was a very nice place. Rambler roses and honeysuckle were climbing over the piazza in a riot of love-liness. I went along toward the garage, but help quarters, which were also tightly closed. There were ornamental shrubs and trellises and near one, I noticed a flight of steps leading down, the shrubbery nearly meeting across them. I pushed through and went down and behold a beautiful sight—a real sunken garden—two arches were covered with ramblers, of a pink, covered its arch completely, and under the arches, I could just reach them. There were stocks, sweet williams, lilies of all shades and arranged in rows.

The grass here was mowed, showing that someone, probably a neighbor, was looking after the place, a bit. This was, however, the only evidence of it. I gathered a small bouquet and finding a path over the ascent on the other side, came back to the road, and on to fresh scenes, and as I walked along, I wondered where the loving hearts and hands were that had planned that garden and built the lovely summer house in the pines. Changes and transformations are constantly coming to us all in life. Let us go forward each day, doing our duty as we see it, seizing each opportunity to find enjoyment in the right way, trusting that God will lead us to meet whatever there is in store for us in the way He would have us do.

The roses grow as they used to do under the same conditions. Showing that hands both fond and true, Tended them once, and the lilies, too, still bloom.

Pessimists are always in the rear, and never in the van of the march of progress. Your successful men and women are never chronic grumblers.

Blow not into a flame the spark which is kindled between two friends. They are easily reconciled, and will both hate you.

The Ten Commandments furnish us with the greatest moral code that the world has ever seen.

I. The Preface to the Decalogue
(Ex. 1-2).

The Ten Commandments are based upon the truth set forth in the preface.
Two great thoughts underlie this.
What the Lord is and what He did.
What He is is embodied in the name
Jehovah-Elohim. The name Jehovah sets forth three great truths, viz.:

1. His all-sufficiency. He is the one who does centers in Himself.
2. His sovereignty. There is no being equal to Him, nor above Him. He is outside of and above every being in the universe. He is immanent and transcendent.

3. His unchangeableness. The "I am that I am" (Ex. 3:14) may be expanded into "I am what I was," "I will be what I am," "I was what I am." The name Jehovah signifies the strong and mighty one. What He did is asserted to be their deliverance from Egyptian bondage.

II. The First Commandment (v. 3).
"Thou shalt have no other gods before Me" means literally, "Thou shalt have no other gods before My face."
This commandment requires single-hearted worship and service. Every man has his god. It is either the true God or a false god. Life itself with all its activity is worship. The center around which our activities revolve is our God. This commandment may be broken:

1. By living for one's self. If one's activities gather around himself he worships himself and is therefore an idolater.

2. By making pleasure the goal of our lives and spending our time and money for sensual enjoyment.

3. By being covetous (Col. 3:5).
Every man who is greedy for gold breaks this commandment.

III. The Second Commandment
(vv. 4-6).

The first commandment is directed against false gods. The second is directed against the worship of the true God with false forms. This commandment may be broken:

1. By resorting to the use of crosses and images in our worship.

2. By putting into the place of Christ the pope and following after priestcraft. It should be observed that this commandment is accompanied with a warning and a promise. The warning is that idolatry will be visited upon the children even to the third and fourth generation. The promise is that He will show mercy to thousands.

This means that the workings of the same divine law will pass on God's mercy to thousands of generations.

IV. The Third Commandment (v. 7).
"The Hebrew word translated 'vain' in this prohibition against taking the name of God in vain means lying, deceptive, unreal. Therefore, to take the name of God in vain means to use it in a lying, deceptive and untrue way.
The word 'guiltless' is from a Hebrew word, the root-meaning of which is to word, the root-meaning of which is to be clean, to go unpunished. The meaning, therefore, is that God will not hold such a man to be clean and will not allow him to go unpunished who takes the divine name in a lying and hypocritical way.

The third commandment may be
broken:

1. By profanity.

2. By perjury.

3. By levity and frivolity.

4. By hypocrisy, which is professing to live for God when living for self.
V. The Fourth Commandment (vv.
8-11).

The essential principle embodied in this commandment is work and rest.
It enjoins work on six days and forbids work on the seventh. The command to work six days is just as binding as the rest on the seventh. Only those who have worked can really rest. This commandment may be broken:

1. By living in idleness.

2. By working on the day set apart for the worship of God.

3. By making it a day of feasting.

4. By devoting it to pleasure and games.

Trusting in God
An individual heart, which worships
God alone, and trusts Him as it should, is raised above all anxiety for earthly wants.—Gethse.

Every Sin a Mistake
Every sin is a mistake as well as a wrong; and the epitaph for a sinner is: "Thou Fool."—MacLaren.

Men of Secret Prayer
The men whom God uses most are men of secret prayer.

Save Where You See This Seal

On October 4, A. 1926, the undersigned, Mrs. M. Louise Staples, formerly Reynolds, and M. Louise Staples resident at Bourneville, in the County of Franklin, State of Maine that she was married to Frederick C. Adell of Paris, Maine, at Canton in the County of Oxford and in the State of Maine on the 30th day of June A. 1924, by Rev. Frank Lamb, duly authorized to solemnize marriages therein; and that the Libellant and Libellee both resided in the State after their said marriage; and that the Libellant resided in the State when cause of divorce accrued as hereinafter recited; and that the Libellant has resided in this State since the date of the divorce, and has good faith for one year prior to the commencement of these proceedings; and that the Libellee is a resident of this State; and that the Libellant has ever been faithful to marriage obligations, but that the said Libellee has been unfaithful of the same; and that there is no collusion between your Libellant and the said Libellee to obtain a divorce; and that on the twenty-second day of February A. 1925, said Libellee utterly and completely deserted the Libellant without reasonable cause and has continued said desertion for the space of one year; and that the filing of this libel is not in part due to the fault of the Libellant, but that being of sufficient ability and being able to labor and provide for her said Libellant, she has been cruelly and wantonly and cruelly treated and refused to provide suitable maintenance for your Libellant; and that since marriage the said Libellee has been guilty of gross and depraved habits of intemperance from the use of intoxicating liquors, and of other immoral and vicious conduct; and that said Libellee has been guilty of extreme cruelty toward your said Libellant; and that the said Libellee has been guilty of the same; and that the said Libellee has been guilty of ill and abusive treatment toward your said Libellant as follows: to wit: that her said Libellee has been so cruelly and wantonly and cruelly treated and refused to provide suitable maintenance for your Libellant that she has been born to them that no children have been born to them during their said marriage; and that therefore, your Libellant prays that a divorce be granted from the bonds of matrimony between set and the said Libellants may be decreed, that her name be changed to Louise Starnes, which was her maiden name.

 and your Libellant further prays that she be restored to the possession of the said Libellant and cannot be unknown by reason of her alleged illegitimacy.

Church Rededication

Waterford Church to be Rededicated
August 29th

The editor of "The Outlook," Rev. Ernest Hamlin Abbott, of New York, is to preach at the service of rededication in the First Church at Waterford, Sunday morning, August 29th, at half past ten o'clock. Mr. Abbott belongs to the famous Abbott family so well known in the history of Maine; and his mother was born in Waterford, daughter of Hannibal Hamlin and cousin of Cyrus Hamlin, the missionary founder of Robert College.

The Waterford church, which was built ninety years ago, has been restored to look as far as possible as it looked when it was finished. The foundations have been re-laid, the old windows restored and the walls and woodwork re-painted. Electric lights have been installed. One of the features is a very old candle fixture electrically, and the others are copies. The church possesses various interesting relics of other days.

The Waterford people invite their friends in Norway and other places to join them in the service of rededication.

Town Warrant Committee

Larger Massachusetts Towns Have Advice of Leading Citizens Regarding Town Business

One of the features of town business in most of the larger towns in Massachusetts and also in a few Maine towns, is the warrant committee which advises what should be done about the proposals contained in the various articles of the town meeting. The Millbury, Mass., Record announces the list of sub-committees to consider various topics as follows:

Forestry, Parks, and Cemetery
Highways and Street Lighting
Police, Fire, Wires, and Insurance
Salaries, the Poor, Public Health
Schools and Library
Water and Sewers

Miscellaneous
The committee comprises thirteen men and two women, all prominent citizens, appointed by the town moderator, and the sub-committees, of three members each, are appointed by the committee chairman.

A feature different from our Maine usage is that the warrant committee gives hearings on the various topics and makes recommendations regarding what articles to put in the town-meeting warrants, and follows this by recommendations regarding how to vote on the various propositions in the warrants.

Milton is one of the towns having a Massachusetts "limited town meeting" in which the business is done by "town meeting members" elected from precincts, each precinct being entitled to three town meeting members for every 100 voters. This is a sort of half-way stop on the road to city government, and is practiced in towns that are too large for satisfactory assembling of the entire voting population. Milton has something more than 4,000 voters and approximately 125 town meeting members.

The moderator is elected to serve one year, and is the only important officer elected by the "town meeting members," the selectmen and others being chosen by ballot of all the voters in the town, while the voters of each precinct choose their own precinct election officers and "town meeting members."
